The School of Informatics now hosts its teaching materials on our OpenCourseWare site, which has been built using Drupal. All content on this site will be open to the public by default. The Open Course site launched at the start of the 2023-24 academic year.

All teaching staff in Informatics will be able to log in to Drupal using their EASE account and will automatically be given access to edit the courses they teach on.

Please see the following blog posts for more information about using Drupal:
