

Visualise Gender Data Gaps (using UK data)

or Photography

Artefact exhibition

Creative approach

It would be lovely to do something completely different for once and do something creative. However, do I need to accompany this with a mini dissertation? What are the requirements for a creative project? Costs?

Final Project ideas pt. 1

Partner Project

I have left my contact details on the Miro board for the following partners

Go Upstream project: transport for disabled people (including dementia patients) which is also sustainable

Museum Galleries Scotland: take and leads other to take more action against climate change

Improvement Service: work with a local Council

Combine Health & Transport

Communication of Climate Change general interest also for a potential PhD

What areas could this include? Interested in Healthcare & maternity access in the Highlands.

get a start on my initial PhD idea: inequalities in science communication

Digital Colonialism

Health Data Science

Dissertation

Will this be better preparation for a PhD and give me a better advantage when applying for a PhD? I could also get back in touch with a University in Ecuador and see if I could join a research projects there? (I have been in prior contact with them)

the Unknown

What other ideas am I going to come up with? The upcoming readings & modules will surely inspire me further and introduce me to new topics.

