

New College News

Latest updates from around the School.

Principal Jack

Prof. Alison Jack has been inducted as Principal of New College, succeeding Prof. David Fergusson. Her installation was presided over by the Moderator of the Presbytery of Sterling, with our own Prof. Susan Hardman Moore serving as preacher.

AHRC Success

Dr Arkotong Longkumer has received a major grant from the Arts and Humanities Research Council for a multiple-year project on 'Decolonising the Museum.' This award, in excess of £1 million, will explore items taken from Nagaland and now housed in the Pitts Rivers Museum, in Oxford.

Tutor of the Year

Final year PhD student Stephen Dolan won the Student Teacher of the Year at the 2022 EUSA Teaching Awards. This is the second year in a row in which a New College PhD student has won this award.

Science and Theology

Prof. Mark Harris has been elected president of the European Society for the Study of Science and Theology—one of the longest-running and most distinguished international scholarly societies for the study of the relationship of the natural sciences and theology.

British Academy Fellowship

Dr Anja Klein has been awarded a £100k Mid-Career Fellowship by the British Academy. This award will enable her to work on 'Theology born from Crisis:

Resilience Discourse in the three Major Prophets.'

Black History

This year's New College Black History Month Lecture was given by Imam Mustafa Briggs, on 'Beyond Bilal: Black History in Islam,' and was jointly sponsored by the School of Divinity, the University of Edinburgh Islamic Society, Race.Ed, and the Edinburgh Race Equality Network.

2022 News

COP 26

Last year the School organised a series of initiatives to mark the UN Climate Change Conference in Glasgow.

This included an Interfaith Pilgrimage, the Alexandra Duff Lecture, and the creation of two banners, each 22 meters long, that were suspended from the towers of the College.

Forty faith and community groups, as well as students and staff contributed patches to the design on the theme of Creation Care.

Principal's Medal

In November 2021, Dr Sara Parvis and Dr Emma Wild-Wood were joint winners of a Principal's Medal - an award that recognises their exceptional efforts in providing pastoral care to students during the pandemic, and in shaping a welcoming community for the School's postgraduate students.

Sam Nwokoro

PhD student Sam Nwokoro won Student Tutor of the Year in the 2021 Edinburgh University Students' Association Awards. The students who nominated Sam praised his ability to create "an extremely open, non-judgmental atmosphere where everyone felt comfortable expressing their opinions."

Helen Bond FRSE

Our Head of School Prof. Helen Bond has been appointed to the Fellowship of the Royal Society of Edinburgh – a significant honour that recognises the broad social impact of her academic work.

Shaw Scholarships

As a result of a generous legacy donated by our former Dean and Principal Rev. Prof. Bill Shaw, we have recently launched two fully-funded PhD scholarships – fees and maintenance – to start in the coming academic year.

Schools Outreach

This year has seen the relaunch of our Schools Outreach Programme coordinated by Dr Linden Bicket. Dr Paul Fuller has been appointed to promote the Edinburgh Buddhist Studies Network within schools. Alongside a team from the Universities of Edinburgh and Glasgow, and the Scottish Jewish Archives Centre, Dr Hannah Holtschneider has developed Points of Arrival – a teaching resource on immigrants and refugees who came to Scotland to escape poverty, persecution and war.

Loyalty

Prof. Mona Siddiqui and Dr Nathanael Vette have been awarded a grant by the Issachar Fund for a two-year project on 'Loyalty and Fidelity: Christian and Muslim Perspectives' – an award that will enable international workshops and publications exploring these themes. Alongside this, the School has continued to partner with the Issachar Fund and Edinburgh College of Art in awarding the Issachar Fund Art Prize. This year's prize, on the theme of loyalty, was won by Yunji Zhang, a current MSc student at ECA.
