

Rectilinear volumes–week2

The activities for this week is make cuboids with cardboard. This exercise is quit hard for me at first because cardboard was not easy to cut and fold. After sticking the edges together to form the cuboids, I started to play around with them. Turning the dominant shape around and see how it look like in different perspectives are interesting.

