

Small Objects : Week 1 Drawing Challenge

For this challenge, I had to find small objects in my bag and pockets, and draw them. They have to represent me in some way or another.

The Earphone : I love music, and basically am listening to it anytime I'm not talking to someone.

The Key Chain : I chose this to represent my passion for Harry Potter and some other fantasy type stories.

The Ring : I have owned this for several years, I love it and wear it everyday. Plus the middle section can be replaced with others of different colors, which shows my love for color matching and coordination.

The Swiss Army Knife : This is a way to show both my love for crafts and DIYs, but also my connection to Switzerland, which is where I spent most of my life and where I feel most at home.

The Fidget Cube : I am very fidgety and kind of a bit hyperactive, so I am constantly, moving doing stuff, and I cannot be sitting still and doing absolutely nothing.

(Note to self, work on drawing ellipses because it's definitely not supposed to be that hard.)
