

ARCHITECTURAL CONSERVATION MASTERCLASSES

2 0 1 7

DAVID MITCHELL

THURSDAY, 9th OF MARCH 2017, 5.30pm

Adam House Lecture Theatre,
The University of Edinburgh,
3 Chambers Street, EH1 1HR

THE SCOTTISH
C E N T R E
FOR CONSERVATION STUDIES

CONSERVATION IN HISTORIC ENVIRONMENT SCOTLAND: *Thinking differently

David Mitchell, Historic Environment Scotland

Historic Environment Scotland cares for over three hundred Properties in Care on behalf of Scottish Ministers, continuing a 700 year old tradition of state care in Scotland. This lecture will explore the changes in approach that have been developed as HES has come into being and a new approach to asset management. It will offer some thoughts on what conservation of these public assets might look like in the future and how the delivery of our work can add significant value beyond the narrow focus of the past.

Dr. David S. Mitchell is Director of Conservation for Historic Environment Scotland with responsibility for the Properties in Care of Scottish Ministers and associated collections. He also leads on technical conservation issues including science and research, traditional skills and materials. He has a strong interest in industrial heritage and the application of digital technologies for heritage.

BOOKINGS: <https://sites.eca.ed.ac.uk/sccsmasterclass/>

THE UNIVERSITY of EDINBURGH
Edinburgh College of Art