

Emotional labour in academia: The unspoken burden

In this post, Dr Avita Rath explores the topic of emotional labour, and its impact for those working in Higher Education. Avita is a year 3 distance learning student (MSc Clinical Education) at Edinburgh Medical School. This post belongs to the Hot Topic theme: Critical insights into contemporary issues in Higher Education. Beyond the “Service Smile” [...]